BAROLO D.O.C.G. VIGNARIONDA ESTER CANALE ROSSO

Wine Enthusiast

99/100

Some wines are born of soil and sun, others of history and heart. When these precious 0.85 hectares returned to Ester Canale's family in 2011, it wasn't just land coming home but destiny fulfilled. From these hallowed slopes of Serralunga, blackberry and damson weave through waves of mixed spice incense and sweet baking notes in a mesmerizing symphony. The wine moves with such ethereal grace it nearly brings tears to the eyes. This profound beauty, from vines planted in 1946, doesn't just demand attention but commands silence, contemplation and ultimately surrender to its sublime elegance. A masterpiece that reminds us why Vignarionda stands among Barolo's greatest sites. Jeff Porter

The 2020 Barolo Vignarionda Ester Canale Rosso melds elegance with power in the way that is truly characteristic of Barolo. Blood orange, cinnamon, dried flowers, mint, white pepper, hard candy and kirsch fill out the layers effortlessly. Readers will find a Vignarionda of understatement and nuance more than power.

The care for Vigna Rionda – one of the most important crus of Serralunga and the Barolo denomination – is meticulous. The Ester Canale 2020 is, as always, very intense on the nose, with sweet violet, cinnamon and wild strawberry, this year with notes of black fruits as well. The rhubarb finish is accompanied by a marvellous tight-knit structure between refreshing acidity and thick, velvety and ripe tannins. Aldo Fiordelli

This special wine is made in honor of the vintner's mother, who lives in a pretty white house overlooking this vineyard site in Serralunga d'Alba. Closed with a wax capsule, the Giovanni Rosso 2020 Barolo VignaRionda Ester Canale Rosso is a generous expression of Nebbiolo with dark fruit, black licorice and crushed stone. The tannins are sweet in a vintage that saw good rain distribution throughout the year. This ruby-colored Barolo is a little bit softer overall, and it reveals a strongly fruit-driven finish. The 2020 Vignarionda Ester Canale Rosso is a stunner, starting with its enticing aromas of camphor, dog rose, dried botanical herb and wild red berry. Combining finesse and firm structure, it's smooth, elegant and intense, delivering flavors of cherry tart, raspberry compote, cake spice and star anise before a balsamic finish recalling eucalyptus. Tightly knit, fined-grained tannins provide the backbone while fresh acidity keeps it energized and well balanced. A beauty, and one of the few from the vintage that shows very good aging potential.

Il Nebbiolo a Massimo volume è qui: sinfonia in crescendo di marmellata di fragola, matura, fresca come granita. Deflagra, poi scurisce in umori di terra umida. Sfavillano le spezie, gli agrumi rincarano la dose, poi tirano dritti verso il finale sapido. Giù il sipario.

Il Barolo Vignarionda Ester Canale Rosso '19 ha messo d'accordo tutti. I profumi sono sinfonici e finissimi, dalla rosa alla liquirizia, rilanciati da essenze balsamiche e sfondi floreali.
